The Username and Password fields are populating with my login credentials when I try to create a new user

Symptom

- Username and Password fields auto-populate with login credentials when creating a new user

Applies to

- OLIB Web (all versions)

Resolution

This occurs when your browser saves your username and password at the OLIB Web login screen. It then tries to populate the fields in the new user record with these details.

Go to your browser's saved password settings and remove the entry for your OLIB site.
